Garages? Glimpse the ZR-2's Hangar!

ZR-1 was approaching the city.coming from a southeasterly direction over the Humber toward Hull. When sailing on an even keel above the city, according to some eye witresses, a huge cloud of dense smoke burst from the tall of the aircraft.

It was as though the ZR-2 was sending out a signal as an exhibition, but to the horror of the thousands of speciators, it was seen that she had broken in two and was taking a fremendous nose dive which into the thronged streets.

Then there came a loud explosion and a great crash, followed by another explosion, which was accompanied by the breaking of glass in the windows on land, the whole being reminiscent of war times, when German airships bombed Hull and explosions shook the whole town. DELAY IS MET understood that the government does not desire public discussion of the treaty pending its ratification by the foreign affairs committee of the parliament. The committee will meet Saturday to prepare the ratification of the treaty for consideration by parliament when it reassembles.

SENATE GETS DETAILS WASHINGTON, Aug. 24. - The new treaty with Germany was laid before members of the senate foreign relations committee Wednesday and was received by them with some expressions of uncertainty but with a general show of approval. The text of the treaty was not made public, pending word of its signature in Berlin, but it became known that the document reaffirms in exact language the principal features of the peace resolution and gives force to various portions of the unratified treaty of Versailles.

A first impression of approval was voiced by republican and democratic committeemen alike, and although final decisions were reserved there appeared little prospect tonight that the treaty would lead to a long or bitter fight when it is submitted formally for ratification. Its submission is expected as soon as the senate reassembles a month hence after the congressional recess.

Among the first to express a favorable opinion from the democratic side was Sen. Hitchcock, of Neb. who; as senior democratic members of the committee, led the fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty. Declaring he had received a "very favorable impression of the newly negotiation pact, Mr. Hitchcock said he saw no reason why it should not be ratified promptly. Similar views were expressed privately by other democrats, although none would talk for publication.

Borah and Johnson Enigma. Among the republican members of the committee, the only enigma was presented by the attitude of Senators Borah of Idaho and Johnson of California. The latter is absent from Washington and Sen. Borah had not a word to say until he had opportunity for further study of the treaty. All the other republican committeemen are said to have agreed to Extensive Addition Necessary, "There is a constant demand for additional telephone service and to meet this demand, it has been the practice with telephone companies to provide facilities in advance. However, during the past few years the margin for growth in plant and facilities has been used up due to material and labor shortages during and since the war period and it is necessary to make extensive additions to the plant in the near future if the new business offered is to be taken care of. In order to make these extensive additions, noney must be attracted to the business to finance them and the company must be able to show a return, sufficient to attract this new capital in competition with other idders for capital in the open
